Welcome to the friendly skies of Wisconsin! From the air, you have an outstanding vantage point for viewing our state's picturesque landscape - with rolling hills, towering bluffs, clear-blue waters and productive communities.

Our safe, efficient, and convenient airports are an important part of a comprehensive, multi-modal Wisconsin transportation system that moves people and products within our state and to national and international destinations.

Through vision, commitment and technological research, we are making Wisconsin a national leader in aviation.

Airport improvements contributed to Wisconsin's record of creating 250,000 new jobs since 1987, providing more prosperity for our citizens, and building an even stronger economy. In Milwaukee, General Mitchell International Airport is enhancing that city's image as a midwestern mecca for business and tourist travel. The Experimental Aircraft Association Fly-In, which draws thousands of aviation enthusiasts to the state capital for one week each year, and brings international attention to Wisconsin.

Wisconsin's long-standing commitment to aviation is growing. The Wisconsin Department of Transportation's Six-Year Airport Improvement Program, published in December 1991, includes plans to invest nearly $300 million for improvements at 66 airports statewide. In the years to come, we will continue to surge forward in unexcelled advances.

Whether you are flying the friendly skies of Wisconsin for business or pleasure, we want you to know that you're among friends. Welcome to Wisconsin!

Tommy G. Thompson
Governor Tommy G. Thompson
